

Innovative design

Winner of the BETA 2008 Innovation Awards, the Rambo Micklem MultiBridle is the first bridle that has been designed from the shape of the horses' skull instead of from the outside appearance of the head. The bridle is comfortable, humane and versatile, comprising of three main pieces of equipment: a bridle, a lunge cavesson and a bitless bridle. Designed by William Micklem the Rambo Micklem MultiBridle overcomes the main areas of discomfort and is great for horses that resist due to pain around the bars of the mouth or tongue pressure.

Equigel and Gelite

The Equigel or Gelite saddle pad from Jeffries has a unique molecular structure that acts as a multi-directional shock absorber, eliminating friction and protecting the sensitive back area. The Gelite pad is the ultimate in equine cushioning technology, which induces air circulation and heat dissipation, reducing sweating. Made in the UK, a wide variety of pads and numnahs are available from Jeffries Saddlery.

Colours: black, white and navy. Size: standard or large. RRP: £45.00

Kolostrum for foals

Kilfer Nutrition manufacture a colostrum supplement for foals that is recommended for orphaned, weak or sickly foals and stressed, sick, older or maiden mares, or mares that run to milk prior to foaling. Kolostrum provides the important antibodies and immunity to foals that are missing the natural colostrum from the mother. Foals are not born with their own antibodies and do not start producing their own until after three to six weeks of age. A foal that receives no colostrum is likely to have a 'failure of passive transfer of immunity' (FPT) and is at greater risk of developing life threatening infections.
